Check the estimated ink levels

You can easily check the ink supply level to determine how soon you might need to replace a cartridge. The ink supply level shows an estimate of the amount of ink remaining in the cartridges.

 NOTE: If you have installed a refilled or remanufactured cartridge, or a cartridge that has been used in another printer, the ink level indicator might be inaccurate or unavailable.

NOTE: Ink level warnings and indicators provide estimates for planning purposes only. When you receive a low-ink warning message, consider having a replacement cartridge available to avoid possible printing delays. You do not have to replace the cartridges until the print quality is unacceptable.

NOTE: Ink from the cartridges is used in the printing process in a number of different ways, including in the initialization process, which prepares the product and cartridges for printing, and in printhead servicing, which keeps print nozzles clear and ink flowing smoothly. In addition, some residual ink is left in the cartridge after it is used. For more information, see www.hp.com/go/inkusage.

To check the ink levels from the control panel

1. From the Home screen, touch the Setup icon. The Setup Menu is displayed.
2. Touch Tools.
3. Touch Display Estimated Ink Levels.

The HP Photosmart displays a gauge that shows the estimated ink levels of all cartridges installed.

To check the ink levels from the Printer Software

1. Click the HP Photosmart desktop icon to open the Printer Software.

 NOTE: You can also access the Printer Software by clicking Start > Programs > HP > HP Photosmart Plus B210 > HP Photosmart Plus B210

2. In the Printer Software, click Estimated Ink Levels.

Wireless without a router (ad hoc connection)

Use this section if you want to connect the HP Photosmart to a wireless-capable computer without using a wireless router or access point.

There are two methods you can use to connect the HP Photosmart to your computer using an ad hoc wireless network connection. Once connected, you can install the HP Photosmart software.

Turn on the wireless radio for the HP Photosmart and the wireless radio on your computer. On your computer, connect to the network name (SSID) hp (product model).(6-digit unique identifier), which is the default ad hoc network created by the HP Photosmart. The 6-digit identifier is unique to each printer.

OR

Use an ad hoc network profile on your computer to connect to the product. If your computer is not currently configured with an ad hoc network profile, consult the Help file for your computer Operating System for the proper method to create an ad hoc profile on your computer. Once the ad hoc network profile has been created, insert the installation CD that came with the product and install the software. Connect to the ad hoc network profile you created on your computer.

 NOTE: An ad hoc connection can be used if you do not have a wireless router or access point but do have a wireless radio on your computer. However, an ad hoc connection may result in a lower level of network security and possibly reduced performance when compared to an infrastructure network connection using a wireless router or access point.

To connect the HP Photosmart to a Windows computer with an ad hoc connection, the computer must have a wireless network adapter and an ad hoc profile. Create a network profile for a Windows Vista or Windows XP computer using the directions below.

 NOTE: The product comes configured with a network profile with hp (product model).(6-digit unique identifier) as the network name (SSID). However, for security and privacy HP recommends you create a new network profile on your computer as described here.

To create a network profile (Windows Vista)

 NOTE: The product comes configured with a network profile with hp (product model).(6-digit unique identifier) as the network name (SSID). However, for security and privacy HP recommends you create a new network profile on your computer as described here.

1. In the Control Panel, double-click Network and Internet, then Network and Sharing Center.
2. In the Network and Sharing Center (under Tasks on the left), select Set up a connection or network.
3. Choose the connection option Set up a wireless ad hoc (computer-to-computer) network, then click Next. Read the description and warnings about ad hoc networks, then click Next>.
4. Enter details, including Network name (the SSID for your ad hoc connection), Security type, and SecurityPassphrase. If you are going to save this network connection, check Save this network. Make a note of the SSID and the Security key/Passphrase for future reference. Click Next.
5. Continue to follow the prompts to complete setup of the ad hoc network connection.

To create a network profile (Windows XP)

 NOTE: The product comes configured with a network profile with hp (product model).(6-digit unique identifier) as the network name (SSID). However, for security and privacy HP recommends you create a new network profile on your computer as described here.

1. In the Control Panel, double-click Network Connections.
2. On the Network Connections window, right-click the Wireless Network Connection. If you see Enable on the pop-up menu, select it. Otherwise, if you see Disable on the menu, the wireless connection is already enabled.
3. Right-click the Wireless Network Connection icon, and then click Properties.
4. Click the Wireless Networks tab.
5. Select the Use Windows to configure my wireless network settings check box.
6. Click Add, and then do the following:
 - a. In Network name (SSID) box, type in a unique network name of your choice.

Install the software for a network connection

Use this section to install the HP Photosmart software on a computer connected to a network. Before you install the software, make sure you have connected the HP Photosmart to a network. If the HP Photosmart has not been connected to a network, follow the onscreen instructions during the software installation to connect the product to the network.

To install the Windows HP Photosmart Software on a networked computer

1. Quit all applications running on your computer.
2. Insert the Windows CD that came with the product into the CD-ROM drive on your computer and follow the onscreen instructions.

 NOTE: If you will use the HP Photosmart over a wireless network connection and it is not connected to a network, you will be prompted to run the Wireless Setup Wizard from the product's front panel before continuing the software installation. If you don't know your wireless settings the software can help find them for you.

NOTE: Some products require a temporary USB cable connection to make a wireless network connection. The software will prompt you when to make this temporary connection if it is required.

3. If a dialog box about firewalls appears, follow the instructions. If you see firewall pop-up messages, you must always accept or allow the pop-up messages.
4. On the Connection Type screen, select the Network option, and then click Next. If the HP Photosmart supports both wireless and wired (Ethernet) network connections, you will also be prompted to choose between Wireless and Wired.
The Searching screen appears as the Setup program searches for the product on the network. If the HP Photosmart will use a temporary USB cable connection to setup a wireless connection and this is a first time install of the HP Photosmart, you will be prompted to connect the USB cable after the network search is performed.
5. On the Printer Found screen, verify that the printer description is correct and then select it.
If more than one printer is found on the network, the Printers Found screen appears. Select the product you want to connect. You can identify the printer by model number, IP address, serial number or MAC address.
6. Follow the prompts to install the software.
When you have finished installing the software, the product is ready for use.
7. To test your network connection, go to your computer and print a self-test report to the printer. The wireless light on the printer should be ON and steady. A BLINKING light indicates there is no network connection. If the wireless light is OFF it means the wireless radio is not ON. Printing a Wireless Network Test report from the printer's front panel can help identify any problems.

Tips for setting up and using a networked printer

Use the following tips to set up and use a networked printer:

- When setting up the wireless networked printer, make sure your wireless router or access point is powered on. The printer searches for wireless routers, then lists the detected network names on the display.
- To verify the wireless connection, check the wireless radio light in the Wireless Settings menu on the display. If the light is off, select Enable Wireless to enable the wireless connection. It also displays the IP address of the printer.
- If your computer is connected to a Virtual Private Network (VPN), you need to disconnect from the VPN before you can access any other device on your network, including the printer.

Cartridge chip information

The HP cartridges used with this product contain a memory chip that assists in the operation of the product. In addition, this memory chip collects a limited set of information about the usage of the product, which might include the following: the date when the cartridge was first installed, the date when the cartridge was last used, the number of pages printed using the cartridge, the page coverage, the printing modes used, any printing errors that might have occurred, and the product model. This information helps HP design future products to meet our customers printing needs.

The data collected from the cartridge memory chip does not contain information that can be used to identify a customer or user of the cartridge or their product.

HP collects a sampling of the memory chips from cartridges returned to HP's free return and recycling program (HP Planet Partners: www.hp.com/hpinfo/globalcitizenship/environment/recycle/). The memory chips from this sampling are read and studied in order to improve future HP products. HP partners who assist in recycling this cartridge might have access to this data, as well.

Any third party possessing the cartridge might have access to the anonymous information on the memory chip. If you prefer to not allow access to this information, you can render the chip inoperable. However, after you render the memory chip inoperable, the cartridge cannot be used in an HP product.

If you are concerned about providing this anonymous information, you can make this information inaccessible by turning off the memory chip's ability to collect the product's usage information.

To disable the usage information function

1. Touch the Setup icon on the Home screen.
The Setup menu appears.
2. Touch Preferences.
3. Touch Cartridge Chip Info.
4. Touch OK.

NOTE: To re-enable the usage information function, restore the factory defaults.

NOTE: You can continue to use the cartridge in the HP product if you turn off the memory chip's ability to collect the product's usage information.
