

Executive Biography

Andrew Joiner

General Manager, Emerging Technology and Marketing, Autonomy
Hewlett-Packard Company

---

Andrew Joiner is general manager of Emerging Technologies, Partners and Marketing for Autonomy's Promote Business. Joiner ensures the tight alignment of HP messaging by overseeing worldwide marketing, ecosystem and partners, as well as go-to-market strategy and enablement functions. In addition, Joiner is responsible for driving and shaping new emerging technologies as part of the Autonomy/IM portfolio.

Prior to joining Autonomy through the ZANTAZ acquisition in 2007, Joiner served as chief executive officer and president of Singlecast Technologies Inc., an early pioneer of information classification, real-time policy management, and compliance and legal technologies, which he founded. From 1996 to 2002, Joiner served as an investment banker with Citigroup in New York City.

Joiner holds a Bachelor of Science from Vanderbilt University and is a graduate of Harvard Business School.